CHICKENS CHEAPER

Hen Men Glut the Market at the Week's End.

Eastern Eggs Are Out of Market and Oregon Fresh Show Tendency to Advance—Butter Goes Up—Fresh Fruit Arrives.

Portland, Jan. 27.—The market is glutted with live chickens, and the prices asked by raisers is so high that the commission men have the fowls on their hands without a very clear idea of what they will do with them if there are as heavy shipments tomorrow as there were today. The advice of the commission houses to the country to send in its poultry before Wednesday for Saturday sale is disregarded, and very many coops will probably hold over Sunday and will not then be as salable.

Fresh eggs are in the neighborhood of 25 cents, and there are no eastern eggs in market. California hen fruit has been coming in for the local eggs would now be above 30 cents again.

Butter supply is not in sight and the fancy grades are going up.

New potatoes from California are down to 2 cents a pound with small demand.

A large supply of bananas and California fruits and vegetables has been received, but the demand is good and prices keep up correspondingly.
